BUSINESS INSIGHT

Healthy Stuff is a global wellness business, trading since 2008 and specialising in allergy and intolerance testing. Using the latest technology to provide results to clients in over 50 countries has led to over 450,000 tests being performed whilst helping people to discover the causes of issues affecting their wellbeing.

Since 2010 we have been offering our partner scheme which gives you exclusive access to our various tests so that you can give your clients a better understanding of what's causing their symptoms.

BLOOD TESTING

Healthy Stuff can provide your client with comprehensive blood testing results to help them learn more about the way their body reacts to different foods and environmental items in order to adjust their diet and enhance their overall health.

Using the latest ELISA technology to detect raised IgE (Allergy) and IgG4 (intolerance) antibodies in a small blood sample, we have seen this sector of our testing experience exponential growth in the past 3 years.

Whether you are a health professional, personal trainer or entrepreneurial distributor, our blood tests help provide an industry-leading service whilst generating new revenue streams and increase service in a simple and stress-free way.

We provide our exclusive partners a maximum 72-hour testing time for all samples upon arrival at our UK laboratories.

BLOOD TESTING

Here at Healthy Stuff, we pride ourselves on providing a service like no other. With our range of blood testing kits, discovering your allergies and intolerances has never been easier.

Our product range consists of 4 unique kits, each testing for some of the most common trigger items such as wheat, dairy, gluten and many more.

All our results are delivered via email where you can find an easy to read report, detailing all allergies and intolerances tested using our simplistic yet informative traffic light system.

HAIR TESTING

Hair testing has been a fundamental part of Healthy Stuff since our formation in 2008 and continues to be a cornerstone of our product offering. This complementary therapy technique uses the latest MARS III bioresonance equipment to test against a large number of food and non-food items.

Hair testing boasts a wide range of benefits including easy of submission, non-invasive and a higher number of items tested. The easy to understand results document provides results on up to 800 common trigger items.

We provide our exclusive partners a 72-hour testing time for all samples upon arrival at our UK laboratories.

OUR LABS

At Healthy Stuff we pride ourselves on laboratories offering both conventional and complementary testing in one cutting edge facility.

Using market-leading equipment and rigorous quality management systems (QMS) our team of qualified technicians are overseen by our lab manager ensuring accurate and consistent results delivery.

The team work to agreed partner service standards to provide you with results within timescales and to any specifications requested providing your clients with the best possible customer journey.

Our labs are managed by Kate Young, a qualified microbiologist, who has a wealth of experience managing in-vitro lab processes. She is supported by Dr Enzo Fornari our scientific development manager.
